The Republic of Cuba is formed by around 4 195 cays and islets and occupies an area of 104 884 km² and 1 200 km of extension. Due to the warm climate, its sea is ideal for bathing and diving.

It is made up of 15 provinces, 168 municipalities and the special municipality Isla de la Juventud. It has a population of more than 11 120 000 inhabitants. Cuba, the largest island in the Caribbean, welcomes you to enjoy all its benefits in a special way.

SIGNIFICANT DATES
May 1st: Workers Day
July 26th: Day of National Rebelliousness
October 10th: Beginning of the Independence Wars.
Wildlife Refuge “Delta del Cauto”

Cuba’s most complex delta system is also the second largest wetland area in the insular Caribbean. Ramsar site where 11 endemic species are reported: Gundlach’s hawk, Cuban Parakeet and Fernandina’s flicker, among others. It is also the nesting place of the Caribbean flamingo whose population approaches 50 thousand. This place also includes aboriginal settlements of which more than 25 archaeological sites have been found. The river Cauto, the longest in Cuba, was also an active area for smuggling in the seventeenth century.

Welcome to GRANMA

The province of Granma – covering an area of 8,371.8 km² in the south-eastern part of Cuba – has an extraordinarily luxuriant natural environment, including mountains and seascapes; at the same time, the province has a very important historical tradition and, within Cuba, is considered to be the area with the greatest number of historical sites and national monuments. The region is distinguished by its pleasant tropical climate and tourist attractions located mainly along the southern coast and in the mountainous area of the Sierra Maestra, such as Marea del Portillo beach and nearby cayos, rivers, waterfalls, seabeds and scientifically valuable caves. There are also national parks which are historically important and rich in nature, such as: The Desembarco del Granma National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage Site that has the best preserved marine terraces system in the Americas; and the Turquino National Park, where Fidel Castro’s Rebel Army had its HQ (known in Spanish as La Comandancia de la Plata) and where the Pico Turquino (Cuba’s highest peak or mountain) is located. Granma’s most important city is its capital, Bayamo, which was the second town founded in Cuba by the Spanish colonizers in 1513. Bayamo was declared a National Monument in 1935 and is known as the Cradle of Cuban National Identity. The Cuban national anthem was written in Bayamo and the city played a very important role in the independence struggles. Nowadays, the Fiesta de la Cubanía (a celebration of Cuban identity, culture and traditions) is held every year in Bayamo.
A historical monument where one can find the tower that was the portico of the first open-field cemetery in the Americas.

Formerly, this building was the bell tower of the church of San Juan Evangelista, built in 1702.

After being destroyed during the heroic burning of the city, on January 12, 1869, its old tower remained standing and was used for several years as the portico of the cemetery.

RETABLO DE LOS HÉROES
Miguel Capote and José Martí St., Bayamo.

The current park was rebuilt in 1958, year in which the Retablo (Tableau) of the Heroes was erected. This tableau features portraits in stone of prominent Cuban patriots and, in the center, a statue of Francisco Vicente Aguilera, Major General of the Liberation Army (Ejército Libertador) and Vice President of the Republic of Cuba in Arms. His remains still lie there.
VENTANA DE LUZ VÁZQUEZ
Céspedes St./ Figueredo and Luz Vázquez, Bayamo.

This window is where a young girl called Luz Vázquez was serenaded with Cuba’s first romantic song, La Bayamesa, which was performed for the first time at this window by the tenor Carlos Pérez Tamayo on March 27, 1851. It was composed by Carlos Manuel de Céspedes, José Fornaris and Francisco del Castillo. Nowadays, this song, a blend of art and patriotism, still captivates hearts.
CAPILLA LA DOLOROSA
Plaza del Himno, Bayamo.

Built between 1733 and 1740, this chapel, dedicated to Our Lady of Sorrows (La Dolorosa), is a faithful example of Cuban colonial architecture and contains images of our flora and fauna. Its original ceiling and altarpiece survived the flames on January 12, 1869. The baroque altarpiece, carved in cedar wood and laminated in gold, is reputedly the work of Manuel Rodríguez and was restored years later by his son, Manuel del Socorro Rodríguez y de la Victoria.

CATEDRAL SAN SALVADOR DE BAYAMO
José Joaquín Palma
St. #130, Plaza del Himno, Bayamo. Tel: (53) 23 42 2514

In 1514, after the relocation of the settlement of San Salvador from the banks of the Yara River to Bayamo, the San Salvador chapel, made of palm and guano, was built here. In 1600, the rudimentary temple became a majestic wooden building, typical of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. In 1613, it was proclaimed a major parish church. During the heroic burning of Bayamo, the temple was almost destroyed by the flames, losing its ornamentation and architectural features. The La Dolorosa Chapel, which since 1740 stands next to the main temple, is the only section that wasn’t destroyed. Currently, the cathedral is the only religious institution in the world that has a mural with a patriotic theme. The central arch depicts the blessing of the Demajagua Flag and the moment when the lyrics of the National Anthem, composed by Pedro Figueredo, became known. The painting is the work of the Dominican painter Luis Desangles.
The site where the Cuban national anthem was sung for the first time. During the seizure of Bayamo, on October 20, 1868, the people asked Perucho Figueredo for some lyrics to go with the music that everyone already knew. The patriot, on horseback, wrote the lines encouraging his countrymen to the struggle and pointed out that “living in chains is to live in dishonor and shame”. Ever since, those verses have accompanied the nation’s glorious days.
PLAZA DE LA REVOLUCIÓN
The first with this name in Cuba.

At the junction of General García, José Joaquín Palma, Canducha Figueredo and Maceo Streets, Bayamo.

The square was named Plaza de Armas when Bayamo was founded. Throughout history it has been given different names, such as: Plaza de la Constitución in 1836 and Plaza de Isabel II in 1837. When the liberation army took the city of Bayamo in 1868 the square was named Plaza de la Revolución by Carlos Manuel de Céspedes. After the burning of the city, it was decided to rename it after the discoverer of the Americas, Christopher Columbus. On April 1898, when the city was finally taken by pro-independence forces led by Major General Calixto García, it was renamed as Plaza de la Revolución (Revolution Square), which is still its name today. There, the so-called Fiestas de Reyes were celebrated since 1803, by all the people of Bayamo, including mestizos, freedmen and wealthy people..
PASEO BAYAMÉS (PROMENADE)
General García St., Bayamo.

Bayamo’s colonial style disappeared with the heroic burning in 1869, so, to commemorate the 485th anniversary of the foundation of the town, the municipal government, in 1998, agreed to rebuild some parts of General Calixto García Street in the colonial style, combining this with modern elements. The Paseo Bayamés stretches from the Plaza de la Revolución to Manuel del Socorro Street and is characterized by its large number of establishments, museums (the Wax Museum stands out, the only one of its kind in Cuba) an indoor mini-aquarium, the Model of the city of Bayamo, the Casa del Joven Creador (centre for the young creator) and the provincial radio station CMKX Radio Bayamo. This pedestrianized street is considered an open-air art gallery due to the presence of artistic works in its architecture.
MUSEO PROVINCIAL MANUEL MUÑOZ CEDEÑO
Maceo St., # 55 / Palma St. and Mármol St., Bayamo.

The birthplace of Manuel Muñoz Cedeño, patriot and musician, orchestrator and arranger of the Cuban National Anthem and author of the introduction of “La Bayamesa”. Artistic and patriotic collections with pieces of exceptional value are exhibited in this museum.

This is the only wax museum of its kind in the country, distinguished by the artists’ skills and the technique of modeling polychrome wax. Artisans from the municipality of Guisa began these works based on an existing tradition in the area. Especially outstanding pieces include works representing rural customs such as cockfighting and muletrains, as well as those representing the flora and fauna of this region. Outstanding figures of our history and culture, as well as popular local characters, can also be seen.
PARQUE MUSEO ÑICO LÓPEZ
Abigail González St. / Serafín Sánchez St and General García St, Bayamo.

Visitors will be given information about the reproduction of the species and will see how crocodiles live and feed. In this environment, visitors can also go into a bamboo forest to admire the natural landscape and diverse flora and fauna of the region’s wonderful ecosystem.

GLORIETA DE MANZANILLO
Céspedes Park, Manzanillo.

An eclectic construction greatly influenced by Moorish art. Inspired by the architectural style of the 13th century in Spain, it was modeled on the construction in the Alhambra Court of the Lions in the Spanish city of Granada. It was built thanks to the interest and the support of the citizens of Manzanillo.

THE HEROIC BURNING OF BAYAMO

The heroic burning of Bayamo, on January 12, 1869, was one of the greatest patriotic sacrifices of the Cuban people in their independence struggle. Every year, the people of Bayamo gather in the Plaza del Himno and in the Plaza de la Revolución, where the heroic feat began, to commemorate that historical event. It is a day of academic events, cultural activities, and in the evening an artistic gala takes place which, with the participation of renowned personalities of Cuban art and culture, commemorates the time when the city burned for more than three days. It is the most deeply rooted tradition in Bayamo’s culture; a unique experience for its participants. It is organized by Bayamo’s Municipal Department of Culture, you can request information by telephone (53) 23 42 5258, 23 42 2810 and by email bayamo@crisol.cult.cu.

NATIONAL EVENT OF MULE DRIVERS

This is a very interesting three-day event that starts with a mule ride to La Otilia museum (one of Che Guevara’s camps in the Sierra Maestra). Other activities include lectures on heritage and history, visits to mule-breeding farms, natural products festivals, craft exhibitions by local artisans. A notable feature of this event is the traditional Órgano Oriental (street organ), a musical organ performance which has a leading role in rural activities and “guateques” (peasant fiesta). The event is held in June to celebrate St. John’s day (on June 24th), and an early morning dip in the river at Buey Arriba is a traditional part of this program. This event is celebrated from the 22nd to the 24th of June in the municipality of Buey Arriba. Its organizers are the Municipal Department of Culture of Buey Arriba and the Provincial Department of Heritage in Granma. For more information you can call (53) 23 34 3716, (53) 23 42 36 65, (53) 23 42 81 21 or email buey_arriba@crisol.cult.cu, patgr@crisol.cult.cu and mpgr@crisol.cult.cu
THE ORGANO ORIENTAL FESTIVAL (THE EASTERN ORGAN FESTIVAL)

Intended to preserve Niquero’s rich tradition of music played with street organs, and its values and socio-cultural significance, this festival includes an academic event “El órgano y su recorrido en el tiempo” (the history of the Organo Oriental) as the main activity, which is sponsored annually by the municipal museum. A contest is held, which brings together the main organs of the province, and a jury gives awards to the three best artistic groups to perform. The event is also an opportunity for foreigners and locals alike to participate in dance lessons, fiestas and percussion workshops, while having the opportunity to vote for the best group in the contest. The event takes place from 13th to 16th of August in Niquero. For more information, contact the Municipal Department of Culture in Niquero (53) 23 59 2694, email: niquero@crisol.cult.cu

INTERNATIONAL CUISINE EVENT

Based on audiovisual arts, literature, tourism and regional cuisines, this festival creates an environment aimed at developing the art of tasting to educate the audience through workshops and lectures which are generally accompanied by presentations and food-tastings. The event gives the Cuban Award to the family or individual who manages to captivate the judges and the audience with their presentation. It is celebrated on the second weekend of November, coinciding with the anniversary of the founding of the town of San Salvador de Bayamo. Venues: Provincial Museum, Hotel Royalton, Plaza del Himno, Plaza de la Revolución. Organizers: Cooking Association of Granma, Provincial Department of Heritage; for more information: telephone number (53) 23 423468, email: domingo.cuza@grm.mintur.gob.cu
PRIMAVERA TEATRAL (THE SPRING THEATER BIENNIAL EVENT)

A biennial event held for those who work in theatre with children and young people, it is celebrated in Bayamo, in the month of May, and promotes the discussion of current issues in theater. The program includes presentations of theatrical works, debates on children’s theater, montages and techniques, puppet workshops, photography and poster exhibitions, and “La escena sin nombre”, a space for dialogue between directors, critics and creators. Each event celebrates a new anniversary for the Bayamo group Pequeño Príncipe, created on May 20, 1979, and its invitation to participate attracts groups from all over the island, whose projects are joined with those of local artists. Most of the performances take place in the Teatro 10 de Octubre (main venue), and the rest in the Manuel Muñoz Cedeño Professional Art School and the Bayamo Theater, there are also presentations in education centers and different communities in the province. It is celebrated from May 25 to 27 in the main theaters and public squares of the city, and it is organized by the Provincial Council of Performing Arts. For more information: (53) 23 42 6539 / (53) 23 42 5210; email: cpaegr@crisol.cult.cu.

TROVA FESTIVAL CARLOS PUEBLA IN MEMORIAM

A musical tribute to the singer-songwriter known as the Cantor de la Revolución (Singer of the Revolution), this festival is celebrated every year in the city of Manzanillo from November 28th to December 1st. It promotes academic research as well as the creation and interpretation of the trova genre among new generations. Sponsored by the Casa de la Trova Jaime Benemelis Pérez, each year’s event is dedicated to the anniversary of a local group or personality. Its main spaces are named after titles of, or phrases from, Carlos Puebla songs. The event includes concerts, serenades and lectures related to the genre and its legacy in both the Gulf of Guacanayabo region and throughout Cuba. It also includes a contest dedicated to the Trova, book sales, tours to places of interest and a pilgrimage to the cemetery where the remains of the singer-songwriter rest. Venue: Merchán street # 213 on the corner of Masó, Manzanillo, Granma. More information: (53) 23 57 5423 and email manzanillo@crisol.cult.cu.
This is the most important cultural event in the province of Granma. It is celebrated annually in the city of Bayamo from October 17 to 20 to reflect Cuban history and culture. The event highlights the works of our artists and art lovers, from all over Cuba and the world. The celebration brings together both intellectuals from different branches of knowledge and Bayamo inhabitants, who participate in many activities: book fairs, crafts and traditional products; orchestras and bands; staging of theatrical works and art shows. Each year’s event also hosts a different program of the academic event Crisol de la Nacionalidad Cubana, an important space for reflection and interaction of writers, intellectuals and researchers, who lecture on culture, identity and nation, delving into its complexities, relationships and contemporary perspectives. In squares, communities, universities, schools, cultural centers and public spaces, authors and performers share their work, and the richness and vitality of different artistic approaches – ‘high’ art, folk and popular – can be appreciated. This very Cuban festival is a tribute to the nation essential values and traditions and its profoundly universal character. It has been celebrated since 1994 and commemorates el Día de la Cultura Cubana (October 20), the date on which the Bayamo people first sang the lyrics of the National Anthem, a historical moment that confirms the city as the Cradle of Cuban National Identity. Its organizers are the Casa de la Nacionalidad Cubana and the Provincial Department of Culture in Granma. CUPAYNICÚ
BOTANICAL GARDEN

Managed floristic reserve

species of cactus in the
Botanical Garden
This botanical garden, the most natural in Cuba, is an institution dedicated to the conservation of the native flora of both the province and the Cuban archipelago, as well as to the protection of the environment. The third most important in the country, it takes its name from the Cupaynícú river which flows through it. In its 104 hectares, visitors can see more than 1,800 species of plants, in particular hundred year-old trees and endemic fauna, as well as enjoy areas dedicated to healthy recreation and education.
This national park is a protected area located in the heart of the Sierra Maestra, Cuba’s largest and most impressive mountain range which is closely linked with Cuba’s history of national independence. It occupies an area of 17,450 hectares and has a typical mountain climate, with average temperatures of 25°C at sea level and 16°C at altitude. The rainiest months are July, September and October, whereas February, March and April are very dry. The Pico Real del Turquino, located in the park, is the highest point in Cuba, at 1,974 meters above sea level. Nearby, the peaks of Cuba and Suecia straddle a wide river system, in which the Yara River is the most important. Many local species such as the “sabicú”, the “sabina”, the oak of La Maestra and tree ferns can be found here. Mammals, reptiles, amphibians, and mollusks, as well as birds such as the Cuban tody, the Cuban trogon and the hummingbird, are an important part of the fauna. The park was also the stage for many decisive battles in the struggle for independence, making the park a living museum which tells memorable stories of the “Ejército Rebelde’s” struggle in the 1950s. This region is perfect for mountaineering, hiking and local species watching. It also houses many trails that reveal the history, traditions, lifestyle, and customs of rural eastern Cuban, such as coffee cultivation and honey production.
Fidel’s Headquarters in La Plata
A World Heritage Site, this nature reserve houses an archaeological universe of great geomorphological value. With an area of 27,545 hectares, it has one of the most impressive landscapes around the island, and is located in the western part of Granma province, between the municipalities of Niquero and Pilón. Within the park, Cabo Cruz is especially important, owing to the perfect state of conservation of its ecosystem, including the best-preserved system of marine terraces in the Americas. Its terrestrial features are also of great interest, including giant steps of 360 meters above sea level, eroded by time and the elements. Several species of mammals, reptiles, amphibians, mollusks, and birds have found safe haven here. Other species, such as the “lagartija de hojarasca” (Crycosaura tipica), the blueheaded quail dove (Starnoenas cyancephala), the “cotorra” (Cuban amazon, Amazona leucocephala), and the manatee (Trichechus manatus manatus) belong to this region, which zealously preserves its values. Cave exploration available here allows visitors to discover archaeological sites such as El Guafe, which has caves once used for ceremonial and funeral rituals by ancient agro-ceramic cultures, making this one of Cuba’s largest archaeological reserves.

The Pico La Bayamesa National Park is located in the central part of the Sierra Maestra mountain range, about 36 kilometers from the city of Bayamo. It has an area of 241 km². The Bayamesa is the park’s highest peak, at 1,752 meters above sea level. The park harbors more than a thousand plant species and even more animal species, which all find shelter in this natural paradise. Together with the Turquino National Park, it is the main source of biodiversity in the Sierra Maestra mountain range one of the largest biodiversity sites in the entire Caribbean.

Depart from the hotel at 6:30 am with breakfast aboard a 4x4 jeep with guide service. Travel along the southern tourist road with guided visits to the Macío River, La Magdalena Bridge and Chivirico. In Santiago de Cuba: tour the main streets of the city, visit La Loma de San Juan, the Tienda del Ron (rum shop) and other places of interest; shopping time and short stay at Antonio Maceo Square. At noon, visit San Pedro de la Roca fortress – a World Heritage site-, the Museo de la Piratería (museum of piracy), and lunch at El Morro restaurant. In the afternoon, walk to the historic center, Enramada Street, and the areas surrounding Céspedes Park, with a visit to the home of the conquistador Diego Velázquez -the oldest house in Cuba-.

EXCURSIONS FROM MAREA DEL PORTILLO

A city tour of Bayamo, the second settlement founded by the Spanish in Cuba and the Cradle of Cuban National Identity. Transfer to Bayamo on an air-conditioned bus with a bilingual guide: en route there are panoramic tours of the towns of Pilón, Media Luna, Campechuela, Manzanillo and Yara. In Bayamo itself, visitors will find a historic city full of cultural traditions: sightseeing in horse-drawn carriages, walks along the Paseo Bayamés, and visits to the Wax Museum, the Plaza de la Revolución and its surroundings, the Carlos Manuel de Céspedes Museum, the Plaza del Himno, the Catedral de San Salvador de Bayamo and the Retablo de los Héroes (tableau), with cultural activities at the Casa de la Trova and lunch at a local restaurant, and with leisure time for souvenir shopping. On the way back, a panoramic tour through the city of Manzanillo; a short stay at Carlos Manuel de Céspedes Park; and time for taking pictures and shopping.
EL MANGO

After being taken by bus to the biological center of El Mango, there will be a two and a half-hour boat tour of more than two kilometers of estuaries and lagoons in the Cauto river delta, Cuba’s largest. The route begins in the channels of Las Playas lagoon, to Cayo Norte and Cayo Carena. It includes a visit to archaeological sites and remnants of a former saltworks, and, on the way, visitors can see water-birds, such as flamingos, seville, herons, macaws and gulls, as well as nesting areas for iguanas and hutias.

EL GUAFE AND CABO CRUZ

After being taken by bus to the starting point, the four-hour four-kilometer journey to El Guafe and Cabo San Cruz takes you along the trails of the Desembarco del Granma National Park, with a specialist guide, and includes a snack and lunch. You will be able to see outstanding examples of the region’s endemic and characteristic flora, and a wide range of fauna, especially birds, such as the Cuban tody, the tocororo, the blueheaded quail dove, the “juanchiví” (Cuban vireo), the grassquit, the “cabrerito”, the green woodpecker, and the “zunzuncito”. You will also see the remains of aboriginal sites, complete with explanations of indigenous life and customs, among them details of Atabeira, the goddess of water. The tour includes a visit to Cabo Cruz, a fishing village where the Vargas lighthouse stands out, a structure dating from the 19th century, with a height of 32 meters.
MORLOTTE- FUSTETE

This is a 6 km 4-hour tour on foot along difficult trails in the Desembarco del Granma National Park, and includes a specialist guide, a snack and lunch; it involves climbing and descending cliffs, and a visit to the Fustete cave where typical secondary formations of the caves (stalagmites, stalactites) can be seen, and includes a visit to the sinkhole of Hoyo de Morlotte, with a drop of 77 meters and a diameter of 55 meters in diameter, whose origins still remain unknown.

EL SAMUEL

This 3-km speleology trail, on foot through the Desembarco del Granma National Park, takes 4 hours and includes a specialist guide, a snack and lunch. Visitors will enjoy the park’s typical landscape of terraces and its geomorphological features, such as the diente de perro (lapies), diaclasias, cliffs, and caves. The journey to the El Samuel cave will give you an excellent view of marine terraces, and the cave itself is an excellent natural viewpoint for seeing the Caribbean and the El Real virgin forest, containing varied secondary formations, archaeological remnants and cave fauna.
LAS YAGUAS

This 17 km 6-hour four-wheel jeep drive through the Desembarco del Granma National Park includes a specialist guide, a snack and lunch. You will make a stop in Alto de la Vigia to enjoy the panoramic views of the hotel complex and bay of Marea del Portillo, from a height of 360 meters above sea level. Varied topographical features can be seen, especially those forming waterfalls of different levels. A swim in natural pools is also available.

VISITS TO NATIONAL PARKS

TURQUINO

Transfer on an air-conditioned vehicle with a bilingual guide. During the journey you will be given a panoramic tour through the towns of Pilón, Media Luna, Campechuela, Manzanillo, Yara and Bartolomé Masó, ending with a welcome cocktail at Villa Santo Domingo, and some leisure time of your own. There will be a visit to the Visitor Information Center, and then a safari (in a four-wheel drive jeep) to the natural viewpoint of Alto de Naranjo, with a short stay for taking pictures and enjoying the mountain landscape from an altitude of 955 meters. There will then be an ecotour to the Comandancia La Plata: a two-hour walk through eco-touristic mountain paths in a Protected Area, where local flora and fauna can be observed.

DESEMBARCO DEL GRANMA

Transfer in an air-conditioned vehicle with a bilingual guide. During the journey there will be a panoramic tour through the towns of Pilón and Niquero, and a visit to the natural archaeological site of El Guafe, including with flora and fauna-watching, a visit to caves used as shelters and for ceremonial and funeral rituals, including the cave to Atabeira, the goddess of water. There will be an excursion to the fishing community of Cabo Cruz, including a visit to the 32 meter-high Vargas lighthouse, dating from the 19th century, and to the Portada de la Libertad historical monument; there will also be visits related to the landing of the Granma yacht in 1956: the Granma Yacht Memorial, and the house of the peasant Ángel Pérez, with a walk along the Ruta de los Expedicionarios path. Lunch is at a local restaurant, with a walking tour of the historic center of Niquero.

I beg you to send me in the first cart that comes, a dozen masapapas, another one of ahoga gatos, some Rosca-blandas and bollos prietos, and also a jar of drunken plums, exquisite as they are usually made there. Make a selection of course, because they will be given, as a matter of courtesy, to a captain of a felucca who leaves for Spain and I want them to know and admire our ingeniousness as it deserves.

Tips for tourists

- If you are going to tour the city in a traditional horse-drawn carriage, it is preferable to do it at sunset when the weather is cooler. Bayamo is one of the hottest cities in Cuba and the sun is intense. So we recommend that you wear a hat or cap, sunglasses and sunscreen.
- There are several institutions where you can change currency: banks, Casas de Cambios (Cadeca), hotel bureaus. Never change money on the street, as it can be unsafe.
- We recommend that visitors use insect repellents along with sunscreens, caps and hats.
- We suggest the use of long sleeves and pants, as well as suitable shoes for excursions on the plains, climbing mountains, canyoning, etc.
- It is important to take water, sweets and other sugary items to some longer excursions in order to compensate for energy expenditure.
- Care should be taken with plants that can cause rashes or allergic reactions on the skin, such as guao, palo bronco and others.
- We recommended that you wash thoroughly any fruits that you find and consume during the tour, and that you ask the guide if they are edible or not, as well as ensure that they do not have insect bites or are damaged.
- We also advise that you take care of the environment by dealing appropriately with garbage.
